PERTHSHIRE

Sustainable travel is a huge trend for 2022, and it's not surprising that sustainable travel to Scotland is burgeoning, with the perfect combination of stunning natural beauty, proximity and accessibility, and superb venues making sustainability central to their offering, whilst not compromising on comfort or service.

Perthshire is particularly perfect in this regard, encapsulating all that is best about sustainable travel in Scotland. Offering breathtaking Highland scenery, yet reached from Scotland's major hubs in little over an hour, it really is the perfect place to bring a corporate, leisure or incentive group for a true experience of Scotland with a sustainability focus, and the small city of Perth has big ambitions to become Europe's most sustainable small city.
